Carlton; Melbourne University Press; 1990.

St Julian was, during the middle decades of last century, a Sydney burgher and middle-class Catholic gentleman of unsullied - if generally impecunious- respectability. His was a useful and moderately influential life as journalist and sometimes newspaper proprietor. Law reporter for the Sydney Morning herald for twenty years, he served on several municipal councils. His biography illuminates many aspects of nineteenth-century urban Australia-sectarianism, political education, local government and the role of newspapers. Click here to Order

First Edition; Roy. 4to; pp. 144; illustrated with 75 coloured plates, bound in stiff illustrated wrappers with French flaps, previous owner's bookplate on front endpaper, a fine copy.

Hobart; West Wind Press; 1996.

The book represents three ways of viewing Mount Wellington. Flanagan's essay uses his writer's skill and historian's training to combine history, ideas and experience. Dombrovskis' photographic essay is a visual appreciation of the natural surroundings. Kirkpatrick's natural history of the Mount is couched in academically accurate terms and amounts to a substantial work of reference. This is the last of Peter Dombrovskis works he died on March 28, 1996, and this work was published posthumously. All his works are scarce and highly sort after. Click here to Order

HIPPOCRATES.

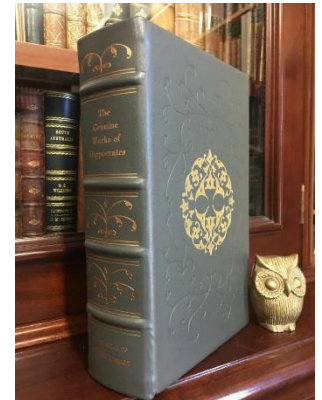

The Genuine Works of Hippocrates. [Two Volumes bound in One].

Special Limited Facsimile Edition; Thick Demy 8vo; pp. x, 872; (12), (1); marbled endpapers, 12 pages of plates, index to the two volumes, bound in full grey leather, raised bands, title lettered in gilt on spine, brass-die stamped decoration in gilt on spine and boards, silk page marker, fine copy.

Birmingham, Alabama; The Classics of Medicine Library/Gryphon Editions Ltd.; 1985.

The book represents another hallmark in Hippocratic scholarship. It is the product of Francis Adams intention to produce a translation comprising "the whole of those Treatises which are now regarded as genuine," though some scholars continue to maintain that it is the collected writings of a group of what may be called Hippocratic physicians, trained in the principles advocated by the Father of Medicine. London; The Mandrake Press; 1929.

"Iscariot" is the first novel published by the Mandrake Press, it is an account of betrayal which ended in Aceldama. The Action of Judas in betraying the Master is ascribed to a hopeless, earthly infatuation for Mary of Magdala - and the perfume of her spikenard upon the master is maddening in the betrayer's nostrils at the moment of the Judas kiss. The treatment of religious themes is reverent and the historical setting is convincing. Click here to Order

Gippsland. My Home Ground.

First Edition; Cr. 4to; pp. 109; 47 photograph illustrations; 2 maps, of which one is a fold-out map at rear, bound in original stiff illustrated wrapper, good copy.

Bairnsdale; Kapana Pres; 1991.

Frank Ruth was born at Swifts Creek in Gippsland. His father was a teacher and his family moved around to quite a few places, but Gippsland was always home for Frank. He enjoyed walking in the mountains, which became a constant recreation. He has served as a Catholic priest in many towns in Gippsland, which has given him new areas for bushwalking. This book starts with his childhood days at Boisdale, his family, times in the depression and stories of his walks with history of the areas he visited, Mt Kosiosko, Tarli Karng, Snowy High Plains, the Dargo, the Snowy River, Tingaringy and Crinoline.
